Two cases of reckless driving took up about two hours of the session of police court Wednesday morning. The men put up stiff fight but evidence was strong against them and they were found guilty. Misses and Mrs. Brown of the case against them were not present. The court was told that the men were not present and that they were not present.

William Brown of Mansfield Depot, was the boy knocked down and injured by a car on Main street. The car was driven by a man who was not present. The court was told that the man was not present and that he was not present.

Ralph Cabron, 19 of 8 Stevens Court, was the boy who was injured by a car on Main street. The car was driven by a man who was not present. The court was told that the man was not present and that he was not present.

Antonia Bortolotto, of New Haven, was charged with reckless driving on the evening of August 14th, at which time Frank Dion of 910 Main street was injured. It being alleged that Bortolotto was driving the car that struck Dion.

Thomas J. Killourey and Jeremiah Sullivan who took the number 11 car, testified to seeing Dion lying in the street, but claimed that the Bortolotto car did not stop at any time. Several other witnesses stated that the New Haven car was traveling at a fast rate and did not stop. Dion, who still shows the effect of the mishap testified that he was struck by the car and sustained an injury.

Funeral services for Mrs. Harriet Morrow were held Tuesday afternoon from her home in Morrow, Rev. Leonard Smith officiating. There was a large attendance at the service. The bearers were Paul G. Morrow, John M. Wagon, John G. Morrow and John H. Wagon. Burial was in the North Mansfield cemetery in charge of Jay M. Shepard.

Mrs. Sarah Deplaine Dresser, 85, widow of Samuel Dresser, died Monday at her home in South Coventry. Mrs. Dresser was born in Lima, Michigan, December 26, 1844, the daughter of Charles and Mary Smith. She was a widow of 27 years.

County Detective William R. Jackson and Deputy Sheriff M. Young of this city who early in the week received extradition papers from Governor Cox of Massachusetts to bring Gus McKee of Springfield to Norwich, completed their work Wednesday and turned to this city late in the afternoon.

The property on Main street owned by the Frank A. Sayles estate of Pawtucket, R. I., measuring 45 feet front on Main street is now practically all disposed of to local business men. The property has sold at $100 a front foot. With this property sold, little of the business district remains.

Several Italians engaged in sawing wood at the rear of a Main street store Wednesday learned that X-ray photographs cost money, and as a result one of them is out $10 for destroying one during the afternoon. The men heeded their warning to run their engine and rather than to go up several flights of stairs they drew the water in the back of a Main street duster and returned to the yard. Not long afterwards the duster went to the back room to get a plate containing an X-ray photo and found it ruined. Going into the yard he shouted to the Italians telling them in plain language to shut off their engine.

"What you mean about an engine off?" the boss said. "You know what I mean you — and you'll pay me $10 for what you've done," came back the doctor. "What do you mean ten dollars?"

Succeeds Cardinal Gibbons As Archbishop Of Baltimore

St. Michael Joseph Curley, Bishop of St. Augustine, who has been appointed Archbishop of Baltimore, succeeding the late Cardinal Gibbons. He was born in Athlone, Ireland, in 1879, ordained a priest in 1904 and sent a missionary to Florida, where after ten years of service, he was named Bishop of St. Augustine by Pope Pius X. on April 3, 1914.

for fall of water" queried the Italian. The ended the doctor's argument and he sent to the police station and the Italians were returned that ten dollars would settle for the damage they had caused. When he had paid his $10 he learned that it wasn't for the water. His profits on the wood cutting job were gone, but he learned a lot about the X-ray business in these few minutes at the police station.

COLCHESTER

Frederick T. Bance of Norwich, formerly of this place, was calling on friends here Tuesday.

James R. Case of Marlboro was a caller at the local place. He was called by David B. Murray, carrier on R. F. D. 2, in taking his vacation. Roland Brown, substitute driver, is on the route.

Charles M. Wickwire of New York is visiting in town for a few days.

Miss Margaret Murray has returned to New York after several weeks' vacation at her home on Windham avenue.

Marshall J. Porter was in South Windham Wednesday. Mr. Porter has sold his residence on Pleasant street and has purchased a property in South Windham, at which place he expects to move in a few days.

The new power house has been received by C. H. Blackwell & Sons and taken to the Salem and of the new state road. The machine does the work of several men in loading sand and trap rock into the bins and cars.

Several of the Electric Light company's men have been in town making repairs on lines in the borough which were put out of commission by Sunday's storm.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Surveyors have been at work on the road to West Stafford preparatory to altering and repaving this stretch of road, which has been in need of improvement for so long. It is the intention of the state highway commission to make a cut-off by which Billings corner, a sharp and dangerous curve, will be eliminated and to rebuild the road so that it will have the same construction as the rest of the highway from Willimantic to Springfield.

CORNS ENDED BY A TOUCH

Pain Stopped Instantly—Corns Removed Quickly and Gently

This is the scientific way, the modern way to end corns. A famous expert evolved it. A world-famous laboratory produces and guarantees it.

With millions it has displaced old methods, harsh and crude. It is Blue-jay—the liquid or the plaster. Either is applied by a touch. The pain stops at once, and soon the whole corn loosens and comes out.

Thus any corn, old or new, can be ended at your will. No joyful hour need ever be spoiled in this way.

Beauty Unsurpassed

The wonderfully refined, creamy white complexion rendered, return back the glowing beauty of youth. Results are instant. Highly antiseptic. Exerts a soft and soothing action. Over 75 years in use.
